Police and Citizens Together meeting scheduled

GLYNN COUNTY, Ga. – The Glynn County Police Department will be hosting a “Police and Citizens Together” community meeting on Tuesday, August 1, 2017, from 6:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. at St. William Catholic Church, 2300 Frederica Rd., St. Simons Island. The goal of the meeting is to prevent crime in specific, targeted areas and improve police services. Meetings have been held in various locations throughout Glynn County over the course of the year. Residents and businesses are invited to meet the Chief and division managers as key points of contact, review police calls and crime calls in the area, and discuss the ABCs to crime prevention. Participants will also have the opportunity to ask questions during the one hour meeting.

The target area for this meeting will be the area of St. Simons Island north of Sea Island Rd. Information for the presentations will be prepared using the County’s new Spillman Public Safety System which will map police calls and areas where crime has occurred. This new system allows law enforcement to analyze calls and crime in order to better plan priorities, prevent crime, and provide timely responses to incidents.

For more information on Police and Citizens Together, please contact Chief Matt Doering at 912-554-7860 or Assistant Chief Scott Trautz at 912-554-7880.
