Hurricane Dorian Update #12

GLYNN COUNTY, Ga.- Hurricane Dorian has not yet passed Glynn County and is currently East of Ponte Vedra Beach. The storm is still set to deliver tropical storm force winds to the area and has already caused some issues, including power outages and wind damage. Shelter in place overnight, stay off the roads, and stay safe.

To see real time status of services, potential storm damage and weather reports go to the Glynn County EMA dashboard at: <http://tinyurl.com/EMAdashboard>.

County, City, Jekyll Island and partners will assess any damages, when safe, overnight, and in the morning will make decisions when to lift the evacuation order. The goal is to repair any major damage to power, water, and sewer before the evacuation is cancelled. A curfew is still in effect from 10:00 p.m. to 6:00 a.m. for the evacuated Zone A.

The F. J. Torras Causeway WILL NOT close unless deemed dangerous or impassable to allow for public safety to respond for as long as possible. The Brunswick-Glynn County Joint Water Sewer Commission has no plans to shut down water or sewer service. The status of service is dependent upon power in most cases.

Treat intersections with power outages as a 4-way-stop. Do not drive through deep or flowing water on the roadway, especially at night.

We will continue to monitor conditions and updates will be available at www.glynncounty.org and on the Glynn County EMA Facebook daily. To stay informed on Jekyll Island-specific updates, visit <https://www.jekyllisland.com/weather-alert/>. We advise the public to use the latest forecast models from the National Weather Service Jacksonville to stay informed between updates.
